

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

When an internal combustion engine including an electromagnetic valve drive mechanism driving a plurality of valves is to be stopped, application of current to at least one magnet for one valve or valve group is stopped at a different timing from another valve or valve group.